"Swimming in the Water Tank."

OFFICE FLORAL SPRINGS WATER CO., ! EDITOR RECORD: In your paper of yesterday an article appeared under the above heading, to the purport that the tank of the Floral Springs Water Company had been used by boys for swimming purposes. I am at a loss to account for the origin of such a report, as there is not the slightest foundation for it, and no such occurrence has ever taken place. It was reported to the office of the Company that parties in the vicinity of the Floral Mill had been using from the mill tank for the purpose of shower baths, and as this was using the water of the Company for illegiti purposes, means were taken to it. From this slight foundation may have possibly originated the article referred to above. By publishing this communication you will confer a favor Yours, very truly, W. M. LUBBOCK.

ROUGH AND TUMBLE.-Yesterday, in the lower part of town, a hilarious crowd assembled in a saloon of no lofty pretensions and after imbibing freely, and discussing the political situation, the financial problem and the social evit, something was said or done which should not have been said or done, or else something was left unsaid or undone which should have been said or done, or which should have been said or done, and a fight ensued. Knives, pistols and bludgeons were ignored, and resort was had to the manly art of self-defense. It proved to be a regular kneck-down and proved to be a regular knock-down and drag-out affair, in which only a little blood was drawn, but sufficient hair was pulled out to supply a wig manufacturer for a month. No arrests were made. After exhausting themselves the combat-ants thought better of the matter, and so took a drink to perpetual friendship.

ARRESTS IN MAY, .- The arrests for the month of May were 43-22 males and 21 females. Of the arrested 18 were charged with selling liquor without a license. On the 1st of each month we shall give a list of arrests for the previous thirty days. The causes of arrest for May days. The causes of arrest for May were: Disturbing the peace, 7; assault and battery, 1; forgery, 1; threats against life, 2; assault with intent to murder, 1; grand larceny, 3; malicious mischief, 2; murder, 1; pediling without a license, 1; petty larceny, 2; cruelty to animals, 1; obtaining money under false pretenses, 1; selling liquor without license, 20 days. 1; selling liquor without heense, 20-

MORE SHOOTING .- Yesterday the monotony of life in Pioche was broken by a shooting affair on Meadow Valley street. It was a trifling affair-nobody hurt. The difficulty was between a man and a woman. FLORAL SPRINGS WATER COMPANY. -In yesterday's issue we published an item readers to the advertisement in another in regard to swimming in the tank of the Floral Springs Water Company. We gave the item in perfect good faith; but the manager of the company, Captain Lubbock, denies emphatically that any-thing of the kind has taken place. As a matter of even-handed justice to the company, we give Captain Lubbock's card insertion in our paper this morning.

ANOTHER PROBABLE CASE OF EPIZOOTIC. It was generally conceded during the prevalence of the equine malady that acquired the above name, that its causes and results were wrapt in mystery; nor could all the veterinary surgeons in America give a satisfactory diagnosis of the disease. An additional instance of the singular manner in which it sometimes manifests itself was exhibited ver terday in the case of a mule that evidently has the epizootic. That mule had passed several peaceful years in one of the big teams that daily carry rich ores to the mills, and had become endeared to the driver and the other mules by his gentle and quiet habits—never biting or kicking more than one mule at a time; but yesterday, either because it really had the epizooty, or because its heart was broken by the sound of the whistle of was broken by the sound of the whistle of the railroad engine, announcing that "muley's occupation's gone," that mule was taken sick, and forsaking its companions in tribulation it sought refuge in the classic shades of a blacksmith shop. Ejected thence by heartless men, the feeble animal faitered forth and took refuge in that portion of Miss Nellie Cashman's mansion sacred to the culinary art. Here it stretched out its weary limbs and sought repose. Stretched in peaceful slumbers it lay till aronsed by the brutality of an ignorant Mongolian, who, not being acquainted with symptoms of epizooty, tackled it with a frying-pan. We graduated on the rodeo grounds of California—we have seen 15,000 bellowing bullocks in one herd, as the vaqueros charged furiously among them; we had, charged furiously among them; we had, we thought, witnessed every possible mode and manner in which a mule or a mustang could display its meanness, but from the description of an eyewitness, we should judge the cavortings of our Pioche mule in Nellie Cashman's kitchen, about the time that frying-pan touched it, went a little ahead of anything in that line yet. Uttering a terrific bray, it placed its hind feet carefully against the unfortunate Chinaman's hinder parts, and he disappeared through an adjacent window. The stove followed suit, and if school in Pioche numbers among its pupils a very bright boy, who is always ready with an answer. He is also inquisitive in the highest degree. On the way home from school the other day the crowd at the corner of Main and Lacour streets attracted his attention. He was bound to find out what was up. Elbow-ing his way through the crowd he beheld a galvanic battery, and a stalwart man writhing under its influence. He was bound to learn bow it was himself. Grasping the handles, he received a ter-rible charge, one which almost bent him double, yet he stood unmoved as store. Finally the force of the battery was turned off and Tommy released from his trying position. Soon after he was seen sitting on the steps in front of a store on lower Main street, vigorously rubbing first one arm and then the other. The principal of the school, who, nuknown to Tommy, had witnessed his contortions under the operation of the erry, proposed to Tommy that they to up town and try the galvanic battery. Tommy's wit was sufficient for the occasion, and he simply answered, "It ain't good for boys!"
